District Six Guesthouse – Documentary Series of Short Films

This episode of the Legacy Series features District Six Guesthouse in Cape Town. Having admired the beauty and prominence of the building that is now known as District Six Guesthouse all her life, Faizah Hendricks leapt at the opportunity to make it her own when it was advertised for sale. She even worked at two jobs simultaneously to be able to afford to acquire the property. Faizah’s guesthouse is now a national heritage site and a glimpse into the historical community of District Six, as Faizah has made every effort to preserve the essence and culture of the location and honour the people who once lived there. If you wish to experience the Cape-Malay culture for yourself, be sure to stay at District Six Guesthouse on your next visit to Cape Town.
